Specification

The specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o). Correction of the following is required: the specification does not provide antecedent basis for the claimed "groove" between the shaft and the tip.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 2 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 2, the statement that the proximal end of the point defines the maximum diameter of the tip, and the region proximal of the proximal end tapers towards the shaft are inconsistent.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Sheridan-3612050.

Art Unit: 3731

Sheridan discloses a needle in fig. 3,5 and 8 having a tapered tip a shaft and a groove therebetween. A 1st region distal of the distal end of the shaft tapers distally and then a region distally of the 1st region tapers towards the proximal end. The shaft has a round cross-section.

Claims 1,4,5 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Jamshidi-3929123.

Jamshidi discloses a needle as shown in fig. 4 having a conical tip 31 a groove 33 and a shaft 30. The shaft has a round cross-section

Claims 1,4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Leigh-4667684.

Leigh discloses in fig. 3 a needle having a tapered tip and a groove attached to a shaft. At the proximal end of the shaft is a detent 25 for engaging a handle 4 which when pivoted engages the detent forcing the needle shaft distally. The shaft has a round cross-section.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

Art Unit: 3731

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Leigh-4667784 in view of Livneh-5718714.

Leigh discloses the invention as claimed with the exception of the spherical member on the proximal end of the shaft.

Livneh discloses the use of a round member 56 at the proximal end of an actuation shaft driven by a pivotable handle.

It would have been obvious to have provided a detent in the shape of a sphere, as taught by Livneh, at the proximal end of the shaft, as this has been shown to be efficient at advancing and retracting a shaft using a pistol grip type handle arrangement.
